

A.G. SPALDING & BROS.
520 Fifth Avenue
NEW YORK

Spalding created the first official baseball for the major leagues in the United States in 1876, since then, Spalding's baseball has been the official baseball of the National and American Leagues.

Albert Goodwill Spalding, the founder of The Spalding Company, was a smoke-ball pitcher of the National League who even entered the baseball Hall of Fame.

He not only played actively, but was a major force in the establishment of the National League.

Albert Spalding made his debut as a pitcher when he was 22 years old.

Soon he became a star player.

In 1887, 5 years after his debut, he established The Spalding Company with capital of only 800 dollars.

Simultaneously, his efforts helped to create the National League.

The first official baseball used was the made by Spalding.

For 5 years from 1871 he achieved a good record as a player for the Boston Red Stockings and the Chicago White Sox; he played in 301 games and won 241.

In addition, he became the first pitcher to win 200 games in the United States.

During these years, he participated in a baseball tour of 14 countries in 5 continents and contributed to the promotion of baseball around the world.

It is no exaggeration to say that wherever people play baseball you will find Spalding equipment; not only the official baseball created 100 years ago, but also gloves, bats, spiked shoes, and uniforms.

On the other hand, The Spalding Company has been connected to a variety of sports other than baseball throughout its history, and has achieved many firsts.

From 1880 to 1898, the company introduced the first tennis ball, the first football and the first golf ball in the United States, and the first basketball in the world.

You can find the pioneering spirit of Albert Spalding still alive today.
